

Support the Migration Policy Institute

Thank you for considering supporting the work of the Migration Policy Institute, an independent, nonpartisan research organization that is one of the world's premier institutions analyzing international migration trends and policies. We are deeply appreciative of your support for our research, data generation, and mentoring of the next generation of migration scholars.

MPI is guided by the overarching philosophy that international migration, when managed well, brings benefits to immigrants and their families, communities of origin and destination, and to sending and receiving countries alike. We understand that sound immigration and integration policies result from solid data, balanced analysis, and comparative research on current migration trends and policy effects.

Your contribution, tax deductible under the U.S. tax code, will support thoughtful, evidence-based research and analysis of migration and refugee policies in the United States and internationally. It will also help MPI disseminate policy-relevant material and engage a broad audience that includes policymakers, journalists, researchers, opinion shapers, and other stakeholders.
